Position Summary

As a "Master Trainee in Biotechnology," you will be primarily responsible for conducting research on basic and applied biotechnology with a focus on microbiology and sustainability. This hands-on laboratory position involves a range of activities, including but not limited to cultivating aerobic/anaerobic microorganisms, expressing recombinant proteins, and performing basic laboratory analysis. Comprehensive training will be provided. Collaborating with experienced scientists, you will contribute to the advancement of animal biotechnology and sustainable livestock. This position provides an excellent opportunity for enhancing your skills and knowledge in the field, while actively contributing to cutting-edge research.

We offer a dynamic, inclusive, and international working environment with many opportunities across different companies, functions, and regions. Don't miss the opportunity to join us and work with different teams in an agile and diverse context.

What will make you successful

- Hands-on laboratory experience with a focus on microbiology
- Strong understanding of recombinant protein expression
- Demonstrated critical thinking and data-driven approach
- Excellent communication skills and ability to work collaboratively
